AMP Stage 3 Review (for the Retail Butchering and Meat Processing Sectors)

Start date: 29 August 2025
Expected completion date: 30 November 2027

Prioritisation: Routine— 24 months

This project continues the full review of the AMP Australian Meat Processing Training Package, which began in 2021.

This third stage of the review will focus on the remaining Certificate III qualifications and their associated units of competency. To ensure targeted sector engagement, the project will be divided into two dedicated teams running concurrently:

- Part A will focus on Retail Butchery
- Part B will focus on Meat Processing

This review aims to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements, alignment with trade needs, and relevance to visa eligibility criteria, while also addressing critical skill gaps that affect workforce stability. It will adopt the purpose-driven qualification design approach introduced through Qualification Reform and align with the 2025 Training Package Organising Framework (TPOF) policy.

ACM Animal Care and Management Training Package

SKI_ANN_2425_004 ACM Veterinary Nursing Skills and Qualification Review

Start date: 31 January 2025
Expected completion date: 30 June 2026

Prioritisation: Routine—12 months
To allow suitable time for targeted face-to-face consultation in rural and remote areas to better target stakeholders impacted by and/or interested in the outcomes of the project.

This Training Product Development activity is a comprehensive review of veterinary nursing qualifications ensuring that qualifications remain industry-relevant.

The veterinary services industry supports a thorough review of the Certificate IV and Diploma of Veterinary Nursing to ensure occupational and skills alignment, including compliance with regulatory requirements. Skills such as performing dental prophylaxis, taking radiographs, and conducting nurse consultations, deemed essential for diploma-level graduates, are currently situated at Certificate-IV level, creating a misalignment between job roles and AQF level. Addressing this misalignment may support determination of the skills standards that would be stipulated under the potential mandatory registration of veterinary nurses and technicians, as advocated by the Australasian Veterinary Boards Council, and supported by the Veterinary Nurses Council of Australia.

More information is available on the project webpage.

For review:

- 2 qualifications
- 60 units of competency

MSF Furnishing Training Package

SKI_ANN_2425_001 Window Furnishings and Shade Sails Project

Start date: 23 September 2024
Expected completion date: 30 April 2026

Prioritisation: Routine—12 months

This Training Product Development activity aims to update the national qualification and associated skills standards for the window furnishing manufacturing industry. The updates will ensure learners acquire the competencies needed to perform effectively in today's workplaces and support the industry's growth within the construction and home improvement sectors.

The revised qualification and a proposed new skill set for security screen installers will also align with the national occupational licensing initiative. This initiative seeks to ensure all professionals in the field are equipped with the skills required to deliver high-quality, compliant, and reliable installations.

More information is available on the project webpage.

AFP_ANN_2324_004 Shearing and Wool— final group AHC sector approach

Start date: 30 November 2023
Completion date: 30 November 2024

Prioritisation: Routine— 12 months
To allow suitable time for targeted face-to-face consultation in rural and remote areas to better target stakeholders impacted by and/or interested in the outcomes of the project.

This project covers the shearing and wool sectors of the AHC Agriculture, Horticulture and Conservation and Land Management Training Package.

Initiatives of particular importance in this project are: addressing issues with duplication and the inclusion of units that are no longer required by industry; reviewing and adjusting units to better reflect the level of the task described; undertaking targeted consultation to further investigate whether there are improvements that may be made to the training products covering shearing and wool classing skills to work towards addressing labour shortages in these occupations; ensuring workplace health and safety requirements are firmly embedded in the training products.

More information is available on the project webpage.

For review:

- 6 qualifications
- 34 units of competency.

In finding solutions to some of the identified challenges, training products may be removed, merged and/or deleted, and new units of competency may be developed to support any new technologies or processes for relevant workplaces.

AHC Improvements Project Start date: 30 June 2023 Completion date: 1 May 2024 Prioritisation: Fast-track To ensure the components are up to date so that the latest available units can be utilised for training, and they reflect real (and current) job outcomes.	Over the past few years, the AHC training package has been undergoing significant revision using a 'Unit Sector' approach, to bring it up to date with current work methods and skills needs. As a result, several qualifications and skill sets need to be updated to incorporate units of competency that have been developed or revised in recent projects. In particular, several work health and safety and environmental care-related units have been updated which are core units in numerous qualifications. More information is available on the project webpage.	Updates to training package products in the AHC Training Package include: • 40 qualifications • 28 skill sets • 4 units for deletion • 3 units with minor amendments In addition: • a new unit developed during the recent Responding and Assisting in Bushfires Project is recommended for inclusion in the Diploma and Advanced Diploma of Arboriculture • imported units of competency in qualifications and skill sets will be updated to reflect recent revisions. See Attachment G for list of products being reviewed.
Tree Felling Project Start date: 30 June 2023 Completion date: 1 May 2024 Prioritisation: Fast-track To discuss and find solutions that will make sure the units can be safely delivered and assessed before the teach-out period expires. In devising solutions, consideration will be given to safety standards, accessibility of resources, competency development and training resources.	Using a chainsaw to fell trees is a crucial skill in forestry operations, agriculture and arboriculture, as well as in emergency events like storms, cyclones and bushfires. Manual tree felling skills are essential for removing trees in locations or positions that make the use of large machinery unviable. These skills are described in three units of competency which specifically outline the number of trees required to be felled in order to demonstrate competence at a basic, intermediate and advanced level. Some training providers have indicated that the number of trees required at each unit level has an impact on their ability to deliver training, as practice trees can be difficult to source outside of a forestry environment. It is crucial that these units are accessible to train, so that everyone who performs tree felling work can access formal training. This must be balanced with the need for learners to demonstrate felling techniques many times, so they have the skills and confidence to perform the task safely in the field. More information is available on the Skills Insight website. ForestWorks provided support for the management of this JSC project as part of their collaborative partnership with Skills Insight.	The project will review the Performance Evidence requirements of three recently updated units after issues that have been raised (post the endorsement process) that these units are not fit for purpose and create safety issues. The three units are: • FWPCOT2274 Fell trees manually (basic) • FWPCOT3347 Fell trees manually (intermediate) • FWPCOT3348 Fell trees manually (advanced) In addition, there are three qualifications that may be impacted by changes to these units and may need to be updated. A supporting Companion Volume User Guide is also proposed for development to assist RTOs with safely implementing these units. This work will require involvement and consultation with the Public Safety and Government JSC. Representatives of industry will need to be involved in the consultation given the safety issues involved and the widespread use of the units by a number of emergency services.
